Logan Square

Focused around the pedestrian, Logan Square boasts bike and walk friendly streets. Along Milwaukee Avenue, one of the main pedestrian highways: cheap eats, gourmet coffee, scruffy dive bars and artisanal cocktail lounges can be found. Some may say it's a recipe for a hipster haven but many socio-economic groups come together to form a diverse, grounded community. In Logan Square, a strong neighborly connection is apparent from active preservation groups to community gardens and a locally-run farmers market. With an emphasis on locality: ingredients are sourced locally at their buzz-worthy restaurants; corner taps tout local, craft brews; galleries showcase local artists; and concerts and streets festivals promote local, upstart bands.

At the heart of this community is the "square" of Logan Square. It comes together at the intersection of Kedzie and Logan Boulevard, where a circle interchange meets with Milwaukee Avenue. The boulevards are widened thoroughfares that are set apart by grassy, landscaped medians and tall, stately trees that border both its sides. The neighborhood has four boulevards in total and these link together to form Chicago's Emerald Necklace, an expansive system of interconnected parks and streetscapes.

Milwaukee Avenue Corridor Development

Explosive Growth

There are more than 1,100 residential units, the majority of them apartments, spread over at least 20 projects that are either under construction or have been proposed in the neighborhood, bringing a new demographic and feel to Logan Square. The influx of housing is expected to bring thousands of new residents to the neighborhood along with money that never made its way to Logan Square during the last housing boom before the recession hit.

New businesses along Milwaukee Avenue include fashion boutiques and numerous trendy restaurants, bars and breweries.
